

Squirrels, chipmunks, and rabbits are busy hopping around.
Draw the mammals you see and record the data.

Plant name: _____

Date: _____ Location: _____ Weather: _____

Notes: _____

Plant name: _____

Date: _____ Location: _____ Weather: _____

Notes: _____

This Journal Belongs to: _____

Draw the birds you see & record the data.
Use the notes to write about what you see & hear.

Phenology is a big word for keeping track of the life cycles of plants and animals that you see throughout the year. Biologists keep track of when life cycle events to take better care of the environment. You can too!

Bird: _____

Date/Location: _____

Weather: _____

Notes: _____

Bird: _____

Date/Location: _____

Weather: _____

Notes: _____

Bird: _____

Date/Location: _____

Weather: _____

Notes: _____

Flowers

Look around, flowers abound. Scientists draw, describe, and name what they see. Now it is your turn to be the scientist. Draw the flower in the box and create a name for it. Record the data. Use the notes to write about what you see.

Plant name: _____

Date: _____ Location: _____ Weather: _____

Notes: _____

Plant name: _____

Date: _____ Location: _____ Weather: _____

Notes: _____

Plant name: _____

Date: _____ Location: _____ Weather: _____

Notes: _____

Plant name: _____

Date: _____ Location: _____ Weather: _____

Notes: _____

